

Vodacom becomes joint headline partner of Future of Media Conference

Telecommunications company Vodacom is on board as a joint headline partner of the Future of Media Conference that will take place on 23 July in Parktown, Johannesburg.

It is the first time Vodacom is a joint headline partner for the conference. The conference is set to attract the country's leading marketing, branding, media and advertising strategists as they engage on various aspects affecting the industry today, including the tech-evolution has changed the industry.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>