Now in its fifth year, the Awards recognise journalists who use their influence to promote responsible drinking amongst the South African public by publishing media pieces covering responsible drinking and issues related to it.

The winner of each category, along with the Journalist of the Year and Media House of the Year will be announced on the night of the awards ceremony taking place in Johannesburg on 2 June 2015. Each of the category winners will walk away with a R15,000 cash prize.

Judging criteria

The judging panel judged entries on the following criteria;

- Ability to highlight, profile and engage with the issues around responsible drinking;
- Approach to the various responsible drinking campaigns;
- Level of support (balance between quality and frequency of articles); and
- Level of influence (creating awareness, challenging target audiences, encouraging change)

"The media's deep commitment to support, promote and contribute to the responsible drinking agenda makes these award success," says Michael Mabasa, Corporate Relations Director at brandhouse. "We would like to express our gratitude to all of the entrants, and extend our heartfelt congratulations to the finalists."
