

Ghana cashes in on tourism bonanza

Tourism receipts to the country have scaled steadily from US$981 million in 2006 to US$1.2 billion last year indicating a 20 percent rise.

This reflects a consistent increase in tourism revenue over the years. In 2005, the country earned US$836 million.

The income generated from these arrivals grew at an even stronger rate, 11.2% annually for the same period, hitting US$680 million in 2005.

Read more here

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>