The FIFA World Cup Qatar 2022 is set to take place from 20 November to 18 December 2022, with the FIFA Women's World Cup Australia / New Zealand 2023 taking place next year from the 20th of July to the 20th of August 2023.

The SABC stated that the SABC Sport Channel will be the primary broadcast platform for the live presentation of the matches, with SABC 1, SABC 2 and SABC 3 also carrying the games live simultaneously. Audiences will also be able to enjoy the live action from the FIFA World Cup Qatar 2022 in the language of their choice on SABC Radio Stations.

All the live match presentations will include a live studio build-up with match previews and the latest team and player news, presented by SABC Sport anchors and top analysts, both on TV and Radio platforms.

Kick Off magazine goes digital 29 Aug 2022

As part of their "always-on" digital strategy, all the latest news, score updates, log table, streaming services and live match commentary will be available on the SABC Sport digital platforms, ensuring that the audiences don't miss a single minute of the FIFA World Cup 2022.

The SABC's group chief executive officer Madoda Mxakwe stated that "The acquisition of the FIFA World Cup Qatar 2022 has always been a strategic decision for the SABC. The FIFA World Cup creates various marketing opportunities for SABC Sport and other SABC sub-brands, and we will optimally use this event to create a sense of euphoria for South Africans everywhere".

"We are committed to ensuring that we provide our audiences with renewed sense of excitement and provide the matches to the audiences with no-barrier to entry through television, radio and digital broadcast," said Mxakwe.
