

Africa's business leaders give advice on Forbes Africa show

LAGOS, Nigeria - Africa's billionaires and millionaires will continue giving business advice and talking about their worst of times in creating some of the continent's leading brands, on one of Forbes Africa's top shows.

Peace Hyde, Forbes Africa presenter.

Business magazine in Africa, Forbes Africa is set to launch season two of its flagship TV show, My Worst Day with Peace Hyde, powered by automotive giant, GAC Motor.

After its successful first season, season two promises to deliver another round of riveting interviews from the higher echelons of wealth and power in business.

Hosted by the multiple award winning Forbes Africa correspondent and head of digital media and partnerships, Peace Hyde, My Worst Day is the only show on the continent that interviews Africa's billionaires and millionaires in a no holds barred conversation about their most challenging day in business.

It was subsequently, one of the most watched shows on the Pan African business platform, CNBC Africa Channel 410 on DSTV, airing in over 16 African countries in Sub-Saharan Africa.

Season one was jam packed with interviews from Aliko Dangote, Folorunso Alakija, Emir Sanussi Lamido Sanussi, Tonye

Cole, Femi Otedola, Senator Ben Murray Bruce and Cosmas Maduka, amongst a host of other titans from South Africa including, Herman Mashaba, South African billionaire and current Mayor of Johannesburg.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>